SHERIFF'S DETECTIVES

Police Station Home of Disreputable Sleuths.

Perhaps one of the most popular arguments why there should be a clean sweep in the police department, is the army of stool-pigeons which surrounds the sheriff and other heads of the department. The gang of hangers-on around the police station appears to be growing as election approaches and attracts the attention of persons whose business takes them to the station.

Visit the place at any hour of the day or night and one sees a number of half-whites, Portuguese, Porto Ricans and an occasional negro, in the recep-ing office or loafing around the entrance. Go upstairs into the office of the sheriff's assistant and a similar collection of nondescripts is to be seen, apparently waiting for somebody or something to turn up.

They are the "detectives" of the department and though they are never identified with a case and are never detected in the act of earning an honest livelihood, always seem to have money to burn in the gratification of their own pleasurable inclinations.

Just why the presence of this disreputable element is permitted around the station precincts is a mystery, and it is a mystery which has for some time past been exercising the minds of many thinking people of the city.

Discussing the matter recently, a well-known citizen said:

"There ought to be a general clearance of all the old heads of the police department, if only for the purpose of ridding the police station of the gang of toughs and bums who infect it at present. The army of them is growing larger all the time and Sheriff Brown doesn't seem to have the nerve to fire them out. Many of them are drawing salaries as specials. Many of them possess police badges. It is good graft for them for all they have to do when they want a piece of money is to sally out and catch a crowd of gamblers and then talk business with them. These nondescript sleuths, often for the fun of the thing, visit the dwellings of natives, flash their stars, talk big and depart, after having bluffed the ignorant folks into giving them whatever they asked for, by way of earning their good opinion.

"These men in nearly every case are bad eggs, immoral, dissolute and brutal.
Many of them keep women, most of them are inveterate gamblers. And yet Sheriff Brown surrounds himself with them and pays them the public's money to help enforce the law.

"They appear to have some kind of a hold over Brown. Many of them have been supported by him, as sheriff, for years, so long that they have got to be institutions which he probably can't find the heart to kick out of a way of gaining a livelihood. It is probable, also, that some of them have such knowledge of the inner workings of the police department, as to make them invaluable to the sheriff and his assistant.

"Have you noticed that when one of these ferreters out of crime is fired for cause, he, like the cat in the song, always comes back? You couldn't detach one of this kidney from the carcase with a stick of dynamite. Funny isn't it? I've seen one of these gentlemen, recently rolling drunk outside the station house and not a policeman dared look him up. Then the sheriff took a look at him and told him he'd "better be careful."

"Personally I've got nothing against Brown, but I am certain that however well he fulfills the duties of his office, his stool-pigeon army will prevent the law being enforced as it should be.
For this reason Honolulu wants a new sheriff and wants him badly. It seems to be a certainty that while Brown is in office the absurdly large police appropriation will continue to be sapped by these parasites and the police department will remain unclear."

RUBBER PROTECTION IN MEXICO.

President Diaz is determined that the real truth and the whole truth shall be known as to the naturally fortunate circumstances and conditions surrounding the rubber industry in his country, and not only so, but that it shall have every encouragement. To this end he has given personal letters to a representative of the cultivated rubber interests there—introducing him to the authorities in foreign tropical countries where rubber growing has been carried on successfully for many years—whose purpose is to study the methods of rubber growers in Ceylon and Malay, in which countries the rubber business is far advanced. The superiority of Mexican soil and climate for the rubber tree, the splendid results which the plantations have already produced, to be supplemented by whatever devices of tapping, etc., are most modern, are reasons enough for the confidence which is now general that Mexican cultivated rubber is going to equal in quality the finest Para, if it does not in some respects excel it; and the fact that Mexico is at our very door will make America an ideal market for all that can be produced.

President Roosevelt of course realizes that we have annexed Mexico commercially; that about seven hundred million dollars of American money is now invested in various enterprises down there, and that this sum is constantly growing larger; hence his interest which he has manifested by also giving letters of introduction to the representative of Mexican rubber interests who is to visit the East Indies in search of knowledge. But his interest may have a deeper significance, for he doubtless has in mind the possible repetition with Mexico as to rubber of the arrangement long ago made with Hawaii as to sugar, by which the production of that article was increased thirtyfold. There is a difference in conditions between our relations with one of our own possessions and with Mexico, but that would not necessarily prevent reciprocity; and if our government were to continue to admit Mexican cultivated rubber free of duty and place a high tariff on the rubber from every other country, the effect would be to make Mexico the greatest rubber producing country in the world, so tremendous would be the stimulus to cultivation.—Cent Per Cent.
